

The Inclement BREEZE

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

Hello, fellow Inclementines! Just another note from your Mayor about what I have been up to! I recently visited two public schools—Sidney Elementary School in Sidney, Iowa, and Northside Elementary School in Nebraska City, Ne. I spent my time telling and showing the students all about Zack Marshall and his dog, Flash! I'm sure all of you know about their extreme bug photography, and now you can read all about it in Bug Summer—Raining Ladybugs! Pick up your copy today! The next part of their story will be told in Bug Summer—Hunting Spiders, which is due out around Labor Day! Everyone I spoke to was very excited to learn about our community and its residents. We may very well have some new tourists visiting our fair town to sail on the blue waters of Lake Inclement! I have several more school and library visits to do over the next few weeks, so I will keep you posted!

ZOLA'S GRAND OPENING!

Zola's Worm and Bait Emporium opens its doors officially on May 25th, with a ribbon cutting ceremony at 12 noon, along with tours of the new establishment, and complimentary slices of pizza, courtesy of Poe's Pizza Pies. Gregory Zola, owner of the venture, which is located next to Gorgon's Pet Palace says he feels that a worm and bait shop is a natural fit on the Lakefront Boardwalk, citing the number of enthusiastic fishermen and women who line the docks and troll around the blue waters of Lake Inclement every spring, summer and fall. "I think business will boom!" he says with a smile. "And with my son, Garret helping all summer long, we will be ready for the crowds!" All of us at the Breeze wish the Zola's the best of luck with their squirmy new business. Below is a picture of father and son Zola in front of their store.

Is Photo Real? Ask Carpenter!

Carpenter Clondyke has called The Breeze several times in the past year to report sightings of Inky, the mythical Lake Inclement monster that allegedly lurks below the tranquil surface of our beautiful lake. However, last week he brought in a rather interesting photograph which we have reprinted above. Carpenter claims this photograph was taken in 1949 by his great grandfather Morticai Carpenter, the famous Inclement veterinarian who has since retired and now lives with Carpenter in their small lakeside home on the southwest side of town.

We at The Breeze have examined this image by every available means to determine its authenticity, and since we can find nothing to indicate this photo has been tampered with, we feel it is up to us to pass the picture on to the public so you can decide for yourselves. Many of you know that Carpenter has received several warnings from local police officer Garner Zepp for placing signs reading "Danger! Inky Sighted Here!" in several prime fishing and swimming sites around Lake Inclement. Carpenter asked that we mention he has just started a new group, The Inky Information Society, which is dedicated to the honest dissemination of Inky news and sightings. Carpenter and his grandfather are the sole members at this time, but he wants everyone to know that meetings occur every other Tuesday on Rock Spur Beach. Carpenter feels that he will soon have more members, including Zack Marshall (mentioned in the Mayor's Corner) and Carpenter believes Zack will be a big help because he has his own camera. Dues for the Society are $5 per year and members are advised to bring their own hotdogs to meetings.

INCLEMENT TOAD STILL CROAKING!

The world famous Inclement Toad, known for its croak that actually sounds like "Inclement" has been found in the woods on the far side of the Lake. These creatures are not pets! People are advised to leave these frogs in their natural habitat and to enjoy their croaking by taking walks along the lake shores in the evening.
